

Bipartisan What Works Caucus

The bipartisan Congressional What Works Caucus brings together members of Congress to help ensure that the federal government builds and uses evidence and data to shift federal dollars toward what works. The Caucus is founded on the belief that if federal policies and legislation are grounded in and prioritize evidence and data, we can make better decisions and faster progress on our toughest challenges.

What We Do

The Caucus advances evidence- and data-driven policymaking by supporting federal legislation and appropriations requests that prioritize evidence of effectiveness, support innovation to build the evidence base, and strengthen state and local capacity to use data. The Caucus equips Members of Congress and their staff with technical assistance, materials, and expert engagement to integrate evidence and data provisions in legislation. Contact Nikky Garaga (nikky.garaga@mail.house.gov) in the office of Rep. Brittany Pettersen (D-CO) to join.

Results for America supports the What Works Caucus with policy expertise and through our Shifting Dollars Technical Assistancessm, which helps governments drive public funds to solutions that deliver real, measurable improvements in people's lives. Contact Kenneth Megan (kenneth@results4america.org) and Salwa Majeed (salwa@results4america.org) to learn more.

Who We Are

Co-Chairs

Rep. Greg Landsman
D-OH

Rep. Blake Moore
R-UT

Rep. Brittany Pettersen
D-CO

Rep. Rudy Yakym
R-IN

Current Members

Rep. Don Bacon
R-NE

Rep. Gabe Amo
D-RI

Rep. Julie Johnson
D-TX

Rep. Lisa McClain
R-MI

Rep. Deborah Ross
D-NC

Rep. Laura Friedman
D-CA

Rep. Joseph Morelle
D-NY

Rep. William Timmons
R-SC

Rep. Josh Gottheimer
D-NJ